JULY, 1962

July, the fifth month of the Roman year, was once known as Quintilis, but when the calendar was changed it became the seventh month and was named July in honor of Julius Caesar. This change was made by Mark Anthony.

This month marks the beginning of the second half of 1962 and is the beginning of a new fiscal year. Days will begin to get shorter until the Winter Solstice arrives December 22.

In the United States, the month is remembered as the anniversary month of the Battle of Gettysburg, which occurred on July 1, 2, and 3, 1863, and marked the high tide of the Confederacy. July 4th is remembered as Independence Day, the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Calvin Coolidge was born on the 4th, in 1872 at Plymouth, Vermont. The first admiral in the U. S. Navy, David G. Farragut, was born at Knoxville, Tenn., on July 5th, 1801. The Republican Party was formed July 6th, 1854 at Jackson, Michigan.

There are other memorable dates in the early part of July, Hawaii having been annexed to the United States on July 7th, 1898, and John D. Rockefeller hwing been born at Richford, New York, on July 8th 1839.

SAFETY BELTS COMING

The latest automobile production figures indicat that the use of safety belts in automobiles are steadily increasing. It has been a long fight — to get the public to accept them, and already three states have passed laws requiring them in new automobiles, now or in the near future.

The three states which have acted are New York, Virginia and Wisconsin. There are some other states will take similar action in the near future.

Safety belts, of course,keep people from flying forward into the glass or into harsh metal, when they are involved in automobile collisions. It keeps them in their seat, and tests have proved that this will often save lives.

Even better than safety belts are shoulder straps but putting this over with the public would be a more difficult task than selling the safety belt idea.

If one will not use,shoulder straps, then certainly safety belts are the answer. If everyone riding in an automobile were using safety belts today, it is estimated that as many twenty-five lives a week would be saved in the United States! And many more serious injuries would be avoided, daily.

CLEM McCARTHY

Once in a while radio or television or entertainment personality comes along who captures the fancy of the country. Not always does this person become rich, especially if he happens to be in newspaper or radio news business.

One such person was Clem McCarthy. Any sports fan who remembers the thirties and early forties will remember the hoarse voice of the one and only Clem McCarthy. He was the most exciting radio reporter of horse races — and prize fights—of his time.

Much has been made of the claim that others were as good or better. And it may well be true that McCarthy occasionally made heroic mistakes, such as thinking the wrong horse won a race, or of omitting a vital development in a boxing match.

All that fades into the unimportant when the quality of enthusiasm McCarthy was able to impart to a wide audience is considered. For when he took over the mike and dramatically said: 'Rrrracing fans, this is Clem McCarthy," the race was automatically exciting.

And so in commenting on the passing, recently, of Clem McCarthy, we should look back to those depression days of the thirties, and of the war-year forties, and remember how many thrills and how much enjoyment his excited voice brought to millions. He did what few are able to accomplish and there is no much more gratifying than bringing happiness to so many people—and McCarthy at least had that satisfaction with him until the end.

PRICE SUPPORT RULE CHANGES

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reminded growers of the new change in the 1962 price support rules for flue-cured tobacco when sold at auction in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. The new change will affect those growers who sell tobacco in these States on any market during the first five sale days. The USDA described it as follows:

During the first five sale days on any market in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, price supports will be made available to growers, only for eligible tobacco that is offered for sale in loose leaf form, and is graded as lugs (X) and primings (P), including nondescript (NIL andNICL.) Normally, tobacco graded as lugs and primings is removed from the bottom portion of the stalk. During the first five sale days in each market, price supports will NOT be made available for, tied tobacco or for loose tobacco in any grade other than lugs and primings.

A grower in deciding whether to sell his lugs and primings in loose leaf form during the first five days of sale, should consider the fact that price support for tied tobacco will be higher than for untied tobacco. This difference will be announced later. He should also consider the market price offered for loose leaf tobacco on a grade basis as compared to the price support for similar grades for tied tobacco. In doing so, growers should make use of Market News Reports which will be available at each warehouse.

Each grower before finally deciding to sell during the first five sale days should have assurance that market space is available on the auction floor of his choice, especially the 4th and 5th sale days.

After the first five sale days in each market in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, price supports will no longer be made available on loose leaf tobacco. Beginning the 6th sale day and for the remainder of the season, price supports will be made available on all grades of eligible tobacco only if offered in tied form.

The change has been made effective only for the 1962 crop on an experimental basis. Whether tobacco will be price supported in the loose leaf form in this area after 1962 will depend upon the experience gained this year.

HATCHERY FISHING PAYS OFF

Anglers who have been fishing at the Virginia Game Commission's Front Royal Hatchery have really been hoping pay dirt, according to Fish Division Chief Bob Martin. During the month of May, fishermen caught nearly 100 pounds of fish per acre on the eight small hatchery ponds opened to public angling on an experimental basis. For each acre of water the ponds, which range in size from three-fourths to one acre, supported 131 fishing trips totalling 359 hours and yielded 415 fish. The rate of catch was slightly over 1 fish per hour of angling which compares favorably with success at less heavily fished waters. The 100 pounds of fish removed from each acre of water were composed of 94 pounds of bluegill and 6 pounds of bass.

Heavy fertilization was responsible for the phenomenal production, according to Fishery technicians. The ponds were not restocked and the fish were not artificially fed. The main purpose of the three year experiment, now in its second season, is to evaluate the effect of a 14 inch size limit on bass which is enforced on four of the ponds. No comparisons will be attempted on the value of the size limit until the entire three years' data is available.

The world is so filled with propaganda that people often doubt the most authentic information.

DARK-FIRED TOBACCO GROWERS TO MEET

"Members of the Virginia Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Marketing Association residing in Appomattox County are meeting at he Courthouse at Appomattox, Saturday, July 14, 1962, at 10:30 a.m., to nominate candidates for Director to represent Appomattox County.

"On July 28, 1962, which date also falls on Saturday, the Appomattox County members will go to the same meeting place and cast their ballots for the candidate of their choice. The voting hours will be from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 a.m."

When people get the idea that they can make some money out of you they are unusually attentive.

An intelligent patient, who expects to get well, will not try to tell the doctor how to treat his ailments.

Education is the only hope of democracy, but it is an exceedingly slow process.
